

What is in your box:

Head lettuce

White and yellow onions

Purple pepper

Red potatoes

Yellow squash

Sungolds

Radishes

Garlic

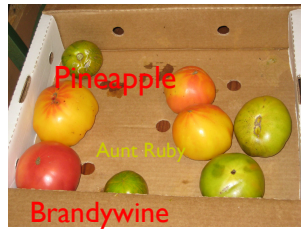

Tomatoes

Purple pepper

This purple pepper is actually the green form of a pepper called an "Islander". If cooked it will lose its purple color and turn the yellow color seen inside. However, cut up in a salad it retains its beautiful color and is quite delicious. Surprise and delight those who come to your table with this one!

Tomatoes

It is time! The tomatoes are enjoying this hot summer weather and we are beginning to see the heirlooms ripen...what a pleasure and a taste treat. Because tomatoes NEVER go in the refrigerator we have them available at pick up sites in separate boxes for you to gather. Please read the instructions on each box for how many to take of each variety. I will send a description of the varieties to you by email, and you will have a opportunity to taste the different varieties here at the farm on Monday at the farm party!

Farm News

Another warm week at the farm! But I must admit that I love this summer weather, even when I am hot and tired! And when it can be followed by an evening swim at Governor Dodge, or a breeze on the back porch...it just doesn't get any better than that.

We did get a couple of inches of rain over the weekend, but it could have been worse, and we did need rain.

We will have our summer party on Monday to taste the heirloom tomatoes and melons and see which ones you like best—if you want to have an impact on what we grow next year, this is the time to tell us what you like and what you don't.

As we move into the summer crops, and also the end of summer from a school perspective (Rachel goes back to Scattergood next week already...), I want to remind you that your share with Greenspirit goes until October—so just because the weather will change and perhaps you will begin school activities again, your vegetables will continue. Please keep remembering to come pick up your box, or let your host know if you won't be getting it. Also please check your box to be sure that you got the size/type of share you ordered. We have been having some mix ups and it is important that you get what you paid for so that others can get what they paid for. Thank you.

Have a great week,
Jennifer
